

Pilgrim Cemetery

“This cemetery in the early history of Philadelphia was reserved for strangers, most probably for the many immigrants who died soon after landing on this continent. Its exact location has not been determined, having been obliterated many years ago. In all probability the present Washington Square marks its site [possibly under South Schell Street bordered by Spruce Street between Ninth and South Darien]. Hence, the names of those [believed to be] interred in Pilgrim Cemetery have been inscribed on the monument erected on the Chestnut Hill plot [Yeakel Cemetery near Chestnut Hill].” [The Schwenkfeldian, Vol. 31 (10), October 1934, page 135.

Inscription on Immigrant Monument located at Yeakel Cemetery in Springfield Township (photo 2012)

[E 106] Ursula (Anders) Hoffman UNK-1734	[E 140] Anna (Meschter) Weiss 1681-1734	[E 161] Anna (Reinwald) Anders 1668-1734	[E 182] David Schubert 1732-1734
---	--	---	---