The Next Meeting

THE annual fall meeting of the Society will be one of the best ever held. President Anders and the committee in charge have obtained three speakers, a speech by any one of whom would be worth traveling miles to hear.

The place is the Historical Society rooms at Locust and Thirteenth and the time is 8 o'clock, November 19th.

These are the speakers: Hon. Charles B. Alexander, of New York, patron of education and a philanthropist; Hon. Joseph Buffington, President Judge of the United States Circuit Court; and Dr. Samuel K. Brecht. Dr. Brecht is one of the few Descendants who have made the return journey to the home of our ancestors. He also took some pictures and will give a two-hour talk in thirty minutes or so. This feature alone will have large interest for every member of the Society within a hundred miles of Philadelphia, November 19th.

She'll Tell Later

Mrs. John L. Farrell knows a good deal she will not tell. For months she has been reading old newspapers and consulting ancient records to discover trace of the wharf at which the St. Andrew, home of most of our ancestors on the way over, docked in Philadelphia. She has started an original line of research which has given her more information than is possessed by city officials. But she is still looking, and will talk later.

Brief Notes

Dr. Brecht is now at the new Overbrook High school after teaching twenty years at Central High.

Copies of the handsome booklet story of the pilgrimage as published in "From Silesia to Pennsburg" will be on sale at 50 cents each at the meeting November 19th. This book tells in copies of living pictures the persecution and flight.

"Aids to Growing Old Gracefully" is the intriguing topic of Dr. Anders before the Philadelphia County Medical Society, November 7th.

Mr. Wayne C. Meschter was recently elected a vice-president of the General Alumni Association of Temple University.

Dr. J. E. B. Buckenham, the secretary of the Society, received a certificate of merit for a display of dahlias at the exhibition of the Germantown Horticultural Society.

Owen J. Roberts was given an honorary degree in June by Ursinus College. His father, the venerable Josephus Roberts, was one of the leaders in the campaign against division of the 22nd ward, recently.

Article by Dr. Anders

"Education for Citizenship" is the title of an article by Dr. James M. Anders, '77, College of Medicine, that appeared in the January, 1926, issue of "The General Magazine for Historical Chronicles" published by the University of Pennsylvania. This article has attracted wide attention and was favorably commented upon by Dr. Frank Haas, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The third edition of "Medical Diagnosis" by Anders and Boston has recently appeared. The book is an octavo, 1442 pages, and 555 illustrations. The authors are James M. Anders, M.D., Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of Medicine, Graduate School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania, and L. Napoleon Boston, A.M., M.D., Associate Professor of Medicine in the same school.

Dr. Herrick's Book Published

"White Servitude in Pennsylvania, Indentured and Redemption Labor in Colony and Commonwealth" by Cheeseman A. Herrick, Ph.D., LL.D., President of Girard College, Philadelphia, a 4to, containing 326 pages and index, appeared during the past summer. Dr. Herrick read a chapter from this book at our meeting held in Pennsburg in May, 1924.

This book is a comprehensive history of the labor situation in colonial Pennsylvania and gives a detailed account of the "bond servant" problem commonly known as the "redemptioners." The appendix contains a comprehensive bibliography of sources for the student of early Pennsylvania history. The book is published by John Joseph McVey, Philadelphia.
